A photograph showing a large, multi-story industrial building with a red-tiled roof, situated behind a field of tall grass and a plowed field. A power line tower is visible in the background under a cloudy sky.

A photograph of a large, open agricultural field. The foreground and middle ground are filled with rows of young green plants, likely tobacco, growing in a field. A dirt path or track runs through the field, curving towards the right. In the background, there is a large, empty metal structure, possibly a greenhouse or covered walkway, and some trees. The sky is overcast and grey.
